Sign up for Mental Wellbeing in Times of Crisis webinar August 24

Canadian Cattlemen's Association - Aug 16, 2021

With wildfire and drought creating challenging conditions for producers across Canada, there is an imminent need for mental health support. Based on recommendations from industry partners and fellow producers, we have partnered with Cynthia Beck, a rancher and rural mental health provider from Saskatchewan, on an upcoming virtual session to support anyone struggling. Held via zoom, this presentation is free for all attendees. Please feel free to circulate to producers within your community.

2021 TESA Maritimes nominee: The Mannings farm in harmony with their environment

Canadian Cattlemen's Association - Aug 16, 2021

Well you don't want too many snapping turtles laying eggs in your vegetable garden, but for Dean and Catherine Manning of Falmouth, Nova Scotia it is one of those little indicators that steps they've taken over the years to protect water ways and riparian areas is increasing the biodiversity on their beef and vegetable operation. Farming in an area where turtles hadn't been seen for some time, they were impressed to find a few of the reptiles making a reappearance, while similarly screech owls are now among the list of creatures calling the farm woodlands home.
